Strategies and tools to implement quality process

- Support (EL/NL/LL) for education to gain awareness about the quality of built environment (Education for politicians, decisionmakers, investors, administrators, local people)
- Governmental Actionplan for building-culture plus budget
- Platform for best practise (EL/NL/LL) and exchange (also on web) financed by public money
- Engagement of the public for building-culture (by architects/platforms,...) Architects as „connecting bridges“ between local politicians, private investors and general public.
- Therefore architects have to be good listeners and they have to train their communications-skills to be able to act as mediators of the process and as facilitators
- Central government has to encourage the local level with good examples and support for quality projects
- Cheaper polts and/or easier commissions for investors with quality-developments
- Bring back competence and knowhow to government and decisionmakers>more architects as polititions and decisionmakers
EL/NL/LL > to get more visions and less regulations
